

The co-membership layer, ministers ordered by when they arrived

862 ministers on the rim, earliest at the top, running clockwise; all 38,287 ties drawn, none selected. Chords bunch inside each period and thin out between them, because a tie requires having served at the same time — the blocks are cohorts, which is what fig. 29 states numerically. The long chords crossing the circle are the people who outlived a regime.
