

Most ministers serve in one government, and never return

42% of the 858 people who ever held a post appear in exactly one cabinet. Cabinets are reshuffled often, so a second cabinet is often continuity rather than a new appointment.