

Exposure and brokerage are not the same thing

The three highest brokers are labelled. All 20 of the highest are multi-regime; among the 707 who served under one regime only, 0.1% clear a betweenness of 0.01, against 17.7% of the 175 who served under two or more. Exposure does not buy it: the thirteen ministers past 3,000 colleague-years top out at 0.0095, while the top broker ranks only 30th on exposure. Sitting between cohorts that never overlapped is what betweenness measures here — a regime-spanning statistic, not an influence one.
