

The grade people enter government at, by era

One row per person, the post they came in through. Under Ben Ali a majority of newcomers started below ministerial rank; after 2011 three quarters arrive at full rank. The protectorate's 20% head-of-government block is coverage, not recruitment: those rosters record the chief minister far more reliably than the rest of the cabinet (fig. 1). Cohorts under 25 are not drawn. Compare fig. 8, the mix of all appointments rather than of first ones.
