

How much of the record the Journal Officiel backs

Not a measure of whether a decree exists — every ministerial appointment is gazetted. It is how much of the gazette the harvest could find and match in the public index at jort.tn. It peaks in the 2000s at 20% of 180 appointments, and thins to 4% in the 2010s on the largest denominator of all. No appointment before 1968 carries a citation. Treat it as a property of the source, like fig. 1 — not as evidence about how governments were appointed.
